

BMES Chapter Wins Spirit of Marquette Award

The Biomedical Engineering Society (BMES) has been announced as the winner of the Spirit of Marquette award for the 2016-2017 academic year. This award recognizes the contributions of student organizations to the campus community that exemplify the mission of Marquette University. Over the past year, BMES has hosted numerous outreach events at local high schools to aid in the development of its members and serve the surrounding community. The organization has also encouraged professional excellence through site visits and networking events with companies in the industry. Students in BMES push themselves beyond the classroom to further their learning and become leaders in their field. The Spirit of Marquette award will be presented to BMES at the 48th Annual Student Leadership Recognition Program on Sunday, April 23 at 11:00am in the Alumni Memorial Union Ballrooms. The advisor for BMES is Dr. Sam Bechara.

Congratulations BMES students!!
